Kirkwood called on the President a day or Yorktown centennial, brought the papers two since, with a view of ascertaining, if possible, whether or not he contemplated appointing in the near future a successor to Mr. Kirkwood, and that the President informed the gentlement that he did not, and further that he did not know that he could do better than to retain the present Secretary.

THE TREASURY DEPARTMENT.—A state of uncertainty prevails at the Treasury Department to-day over the question of the Secretary. It seems that up to noon to-day nothing had been heard from Governor Morgan indicating his willingness to accept the portfolio, and it was stated that he had positively declined it. Then there was a question as to the legal status of Secretary Windom, and it was generally conceded that he no longer had any legal title to the office, his successor having been nominated and confirmed. The question was referred to the Attorney-General and an opinion given to that effect. Secretary Windom held a long conference with the President on that subject this morning, with what result is not known. Meanwhile Assistant Secretary French is acting Secretary of the Treasury, and will continue to act until the new Secretary, whoever he may be, takes charge of the Department. THE PROCEEDINGS TO-DAY.

Discussing the Purchase of Hisliscussing the Purchase of His-torical Pupers—Calling for a State-ment of Expenses—Who were Nomi-nated To-day — Notes and Cont-ments—Gov. Morgan Declines the Secretaryship. Nearly the entire Senate having participated in the festivities of the Blaine dinner last night, there was scarcely a querum ent when the Senate convened to-day and the quite frequent popping of corks resounding from the cloak-rooms, where jugs of Apolinarris water were being tapped, indicated that the coppers of somebody were still hot. When the decks had been cleared and the log read and approved, Judge Davis took the helm of the Senatorial ship and all hands were beat to quarters.

Judge Davis administered the oath of office to Acting Secretary of the Senate Without in the least anticipating that he was about springing a subject which might otherwise have not been spring at all, Senator Sherman offered a resolution au-thorizing the Librarian of Congress to receive from the Marquis Rochambeau, now a guest in this city, and take charge of cortain historical papers in his possession relating to the siege of Yorktown. Mr. Sherman explained that for some years the question of the United States making an effort to purchase these papers from Marquis Rochambeau had been pending before the Library Committee. At the request of the committee a catalogue of the papers had been secured by the Librarian of Congress, but the committee had never had an opportunity of examining the papers. ceive from the Marquis Rochambeau, now The President will make a visit to New York upon the adjournment of the special session of the Senate in order to enjoy a short respite from public affairs, and upon his return will probably take up his residence at the Soldiers' Home, unless the White House should be then ready for his reception, which does not seem likely from present indications.

It is said that the friends of Secretary Kirkwood called on the President a day or two since, with a view of ascertaining, if nossible, whether or not he contemplated appointing in the near future a successor to Mr. Kirkwood, and that the President in-knowing their actual value in every sense.

Mr. Sherman explained that his idea was to have them left in the custody of Librarian Spofford, so that the members of the Library Committee could examine them fully. He did not know their actual worthout the estimated value placed upon them was $20,000.

Senator Voorhees supported Mr. Sherman's resolution. He said the papers constituted a rich mine of historical literature, and the price, $20,000, in his opinion, was very cheap. When he learned that Marquis Rochambeau had brought the papers to this country he was anxious that they should not go back to Europe, and had worked hard to induce him to leave them here until both houses of Congress had assembled. The Marquis Rochambeau, he was aure, if able, would make them a present to the United States, but he could not afford it. This was a rich Government and

An official in the Sixth Auditor's office An official in the Sixth Auditor's office, who was at the Capitol to-day, stated that President Arthur yesterday informed him that he had decided to appoint Frank Hatton, of the Burlington Hawkeye, First Assistant Postmaster-General in place of Judge Tyner. It was expected that Mr. Hatton's name would be forwarded to the Senate to-day, but it had not arrived up to 2 o'clock.

The Executive session was protracted, and rumors floating out now and then from the Senate Chamber were to the effect that the Senators were having a lively session, the hitch being on the nomination of Frank Eastman, clerk of the Senate Committee on Claims, recently nominated to be United States District-Attorney of Montana. It was stated that the opposition to his con-firmation was very strong, but the nature of it could not be learned.
